

Secrets of study at the university

do my math homework

1. Let's start with the relationship to the subject studied. What is the relation to the subjects of the university in the majority of students? "Damn, you would quickly be a boring lecture, otherwise I want to sleep." Something like that. We do not argue, some lectures are really very boring and tedious, but you and the university arrived not to have fun, and to learn, right?

Stand on the side of the teachers. Sometimes I also don't really want to lead the same lecture, because they are already reading it far from the first course. The teachers also disappear the desire to "lose one and the same record."

However, we are what you ask, you ask, because our task is to learn perfectly. And then the whole chip is what. If you, for example, after a couple, come to your teacher and ask him a question on the topic of lectures, then it is most likely to be surprised by your curiosity, because now students are asked about teachers. Then, departing from the initial "shock", the teacher will start responding to your question.

Moreover, the more difficult the question you ask him, the more interesting it will be answered by him. Perhaps it will be needed to contact any sources to clarify the information. And then the most important thing happens ...

You leave the audience, and the teacher is thinking: "That's what a student is interested in my subject, it means that he is wondering what I'm talking about. And then takes you note."

Thus, you demonstrate to your teacher, which is extremely passionate about his lectures. A similar attitude to the subject always bribes and gives you the right to count on a positive outcome on the exam. At the same time, the most important thing here is not to imitate your interest, but really interest yourself with the subject of study.

Let's say secretly when you yourself are interested in studying one or another item, it is instantly reflected in your attitude to it. You stop depending on the opinion of the majority of your one-logs that you want to quickly leave the audience. Be independent from someone else's opinion!

If you really want to learn to be perfectly and become a high-class specialist in your field - do in addition on the subject studied. Additional information will be not only for you with an additional help on the exam, but also give you the knowledge that you cannot get at lectures and seminars.

Self-forming of a student: Why is it very important now?

Now, in principle, in all universities of the country, it is taught equally. Somewhere worse, somewhere better. However, in general, the training program is similar. Thus, it turns out that after the end of training, experts with approximately an equal number of knowledge and skills come out from the country's universities. But now we do not need ordinary people, now you need high-class specialists. And you can become, only drawing additional, in-depth knowledge of your field of activity.

So, summarize: if you are passionately studying educational disciplines, they nourish our sincere interest and while studying additional materials on this subject, then you can be calm about the exam - an excellent assessment of you shines. Perhaps you will even get an assessment with a machine gun, because if you visit lectures (and you will visit them, because the subject is interesting), respectively, at the maximum attendance, it is likely that the teacher put you perfectly for your hard work.

You see how attitude to the subject may affect your performance and thereby on your final success when studying in the university, i.e. on a red diploma.

How to get a red diploma on autopilot?

2. Now let's talk about your attitude. In principle, this secret of excellent studies in the university is a logical continuation of the first secret. After all, if you are interested in study by itself, accordingly, accordingly, you will respect the work of the teacher. Many modern students extremely negatively perceive their teachers. Well, if you are perceived at all, otherwise it happens and worse ... But we will not talk about the bad, better talk about how normal human attitude towards the teacher can give you the desired result - an excellent assessment on the exam.

How to answer on the exam?

Immediately warn you - it is not necessary to become different kind of "enlisions", "rating rapiders", etc. Such people around them are very annoying and annoying deservedly. Here you need another approach. Here is a specific example. You have a seminar occupation, and you know that you will need a projector and screen to show slides. The teacher asks someone from the audience to help bring the necessary equipment. If you are a young man, what you should help your teacher? Simple human assistance - how this is not enough now ...

Useful student habits

A similar attitude to the teacher will undoubtedly be positively affected by your final result as an excellent assessment on the exam. At the same time, there is another way to establish a good relationship with the teacher. It consists in the following: if your teacher is parallel more in its specialty (let's say, you have an accounting accounting, which is conducting a valid accountant), then, having this kind of information, you can ask questions that are practical, motivating that you It is interesting exactly the practical side of the question.

For example, you can ask something like this: "Tell me, please, what tutorial can be read to understand the work of accounting from a practical point of view?"

How to pass the first session?

Naturally, there is no such textbook, because in textbooks, mainly theoretical facts are given. However, you need it to talk to your teacher precisely about the practical side of accounting.

If you competently ask a question, then you may be able to get on the so-called "golden custody" or, in a simple, on the topic that your teacher will simply "incur in the good sense of the word. He will begin to tell you about your work, about your duties, about those secrets and recommendations that will be sprinkled at you, like a horn of abundance. You do not have to understand everything from what he will tell you. Just navigate your head and smile.

How to learn perfectly?

How easy to pass the session?

Remember that the best interlocutor is the one who listens to his interlocutor. When the teacher finishes his fascinating story, ask him something on the topic and can leave the audience with a calm soul. Be sure - the effect is achieved. At the next pair, this teacher will definitely look for you with my eyes and remember how you swallow well with him.

Understand that some teachers sometimes just want simple human communication. Duck give him! Plus, manifest interest in the subject studied and an excellent assessment in your pocket!